NEW YORK

A few years ago, as I was looking through fashion magazines, I noticed that the jewelry pieces offered were either too ornate and expensive for daily wear or a part of a sea of sameness. I saw that there was a tremendous need for jewelry for women who wanted to define themselves. I have always been around beautiful jewelry. And at that moment I decided to leverage my family's access to the best raw materials and my design background to create jewelry for women who are seeking to be noticed.

These collections showcase different design techniques as well as access to raw materials available to me to showcase my ability. I have used a combination of precious stones as well as diamonds to come up with 'The Bird Collection', 'The Slice Collection', and 'The Lotus Collection'. Each collection has a significant meaning to me and is unique in its approach and is wearable on a daily basis.

My passion is to create bespoke jewelry for my clients. My clients go through my design bank and work collaboratively with my design team to create jewelry that is unique to them. I oversee the whole project from start to finish and source the best available raw materials for the project while manufacturing the pieces at the most cost effective and quality conscious factories.

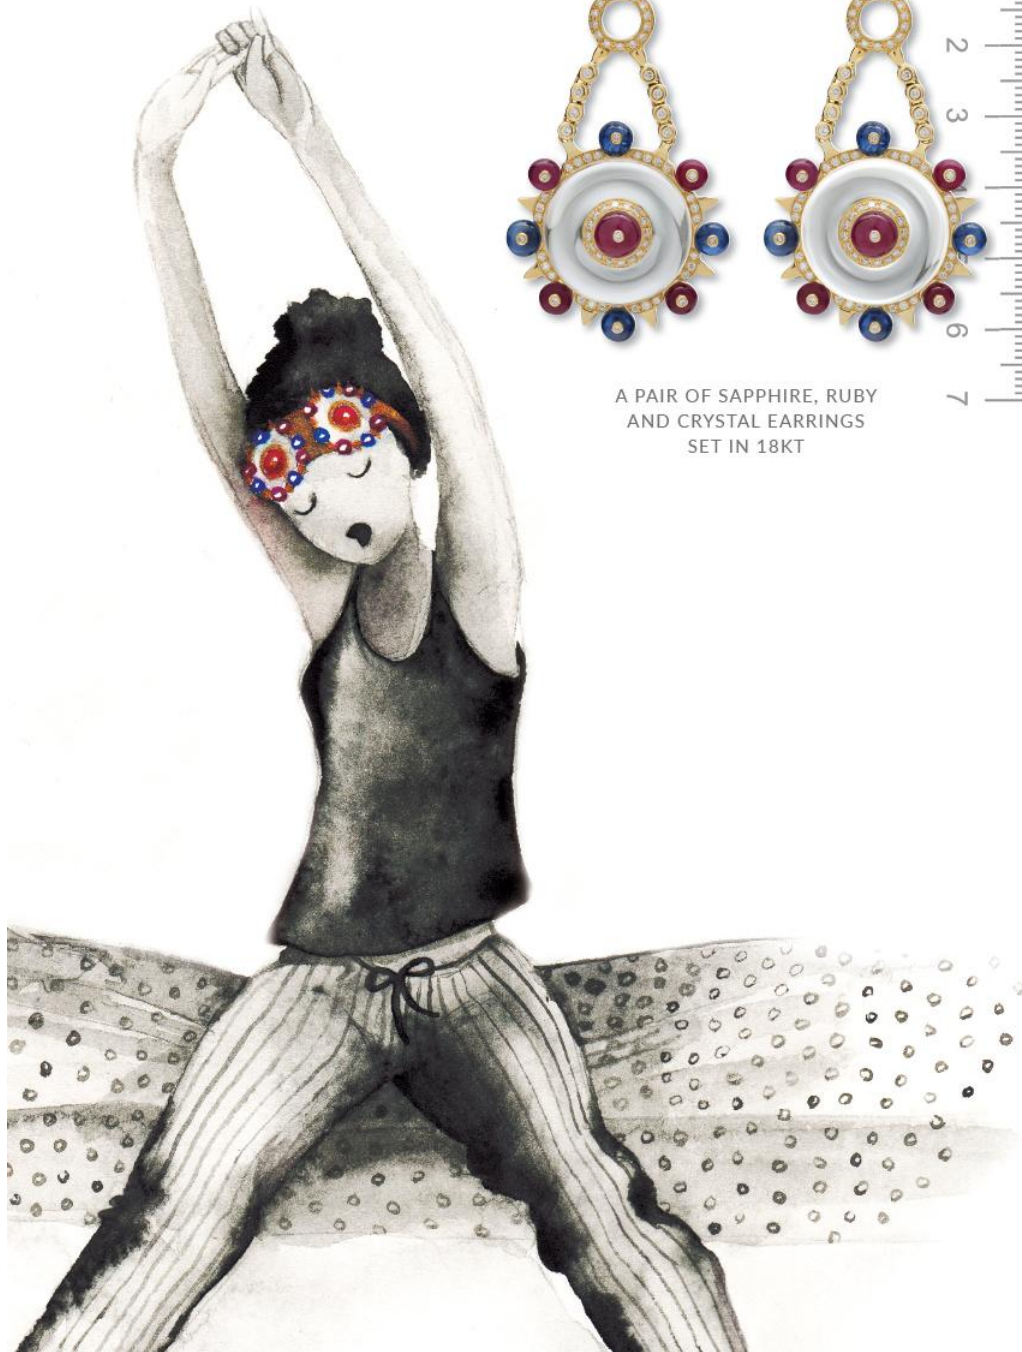

I trust you will enjoy browsing through my collections.

What does it mean to be a debutante at le Bal in the 21st century?

LeBal is a decades old tradition and institution, but its context in the 21st century has changed over the recent past. Today debutantes are much more in the limelight for what impact they will have in this world because of their privilege. As a young woman presented to society, the expectations of you have changed. We know you are confident about yourself, present and knowledgeable about your place in the world. You define yourself by your thoughts, words and actions. You are well educated, independent, raise awareness and money for charities, and are conscious about the environment. You make valuable personal connections and give back to the community and most importantly radiate your inner light illuminating the world around you. You are the modern woman of today, who honors timeless traditions with grace and independent thinking.

Now, go shine.
